Beck/Arnley Promotes Chad Horton to IT Liaison

SMYRNA, Tenn., February 9, 2009 – Beck/Arnley announced today that Chad Horton has been promoted to the position of IT liaison. He reports to Anne Coffin, vice president information technology.

In this role, Horton works actively for IT with sales and operations, as well as handles requests from management and works on special projects as they arise. He is also responsible for IT documentation and processes.

“Chad’s prior experience with the Beck/Arnley customer service department and his ability to understand and utilize new technologies quickly makes him perfect for the newly created position of IT liaison,” said Coffin. “Horton will help us foster relationships, both internal and external, between Beck/Arnley customers and the IT department as we unveil new initiatives in 2009.”

Horton graduated from Middle Tennessee State University in 2006, with a bachelor’s degree in marketing and management. He has been actively pursuing his interest in computer/information technology for the past three years.
